How Real Estate Agents Spend Summer in the Hamptons

The Hamptons and the North Fork have a lot to offer, from the real estate market to activities. We were curious: when they have time, what do some of the East End's top agents do for fun? Whether it's outdoors or inside, everyone can use a hobby or a way to decompress — especially after these past two years when the real estate market kept everyone busier than usual. Tell us about your favorite pastime or a newfound way to spend your downtime.

Kyle Rosko DOUGLAS ELLIMAN

In my downtime, I'm on my surfboard, trying to find the best wave possible with a few of my friends. I've been surfing for over 30 years and find so much peace and serenity on the water. A beautiful sunrise surf session is my favorite way to clear my head, and start a new day feeling refreshed, excited, and grateful. I'm fortunate to live near so many amazing surf spots here in the Hamptons and my boards are usually on top of my car, so that if I have a quick hour between showings, or when the opportunity to catch a few waves presents itself, I'm ready to jump in and take it.
